About Ambajogai:

Ambajogai (formerly Mominabad) is a city and tehsil in Beed district of Maharashtra. Regarded as the cultural capital of Marathwada, the town features attractions like the Shivleni Caves and monuments honoring Marathi poet Mukundraj, as well as Dasopant. The town was renamed Ambajogai after goddess Yogeshwari (also known as Jogai) whose heritage temple is located here and is visited by people all over from Maharashtra, largely from the Konkan region. The town has other heritage Hindu temples such as Sakleshwar, 12 Khambhi Mandir ('12 pillar temple'), Kholeshwar Mandir, Mukundraj Samadhi and Dasopant Swami Samadhi, Kashivishwanath, Amruteshwar. There is an ancient cave called Shivleni Caves (Hattikhana) also known as Jogai Mandap declared as the Protected Monuments in Maharashtra, where Lord Shankar, Nandi and Elephants are carved in stone; Bramha and Vishnu are also carved. Ambajogai is celebrated as the birthplace of the Marathi language; in fact, the first literary work in Marathi, Vivekasindhu by Mukundraj, was written here. A lesser-known landmark here is the Ambejogai Buruj, a historical watchtower standing in front of Kholeshwar Temple. Built in 13th century by Raja Singhan of Devgiri, this circular tower, approximately 35 feet tall, was used for surveillance.

About the College:

The College was established in 1956 by Swami Ramanand Teerth, the great freedom fighter and pioneer leader of Hyderabad Mukti Sangram in the educationally backward rural area of Marathwada. It was commenced with UG programs primarily and subsequently 4 PG programs were added. The College celebrated its Silver Jubilee in 1982-83 in the presence of Shri. P.V. Narshima Rao and Golden Jubilee in 2006-2007 in the presence of Dr. Jayant Naralikar & Dr. Narendra Jadhav. Now the college offers 12 UG programmes, 4 PG programmes and 3 Ph.D. programmes (Research Centres recognized by the affiliating university). The college has got 'A' grade from NAAC in its third cycle in Sept. 2023.

About Workshop:

Welcome to workshop on "Binary Accreditation". (NAAC) is an independent organization established in 1994 in India that evaluates and accredits higher educational institutions (Colleges, Universities and other recognized institutions) to ensure quality excellence. NAAC assesses the performance of the educational institutions based on predetermined criteria. University Grants Commission (UGC, New Delhi) has funded NAAC. The NAAC functions through a General Council and Executive Committee in which educational administrators, policy makers and academicians from across the system of higher education are represented.

It's a crucial process for ensuring quality and compliance across the colleges. Binary means giving an either accredited or non-accredited instead of grading system. It involves a rigorous assessment of an organization (College practices, process and outcome against predefined standards). Achieving Binary Accreditation signifies the commitment to excellence and adherence to best practices which is increasingly important in today's competitive and regulated environment. The workshop aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of Binary Accreditation offering practical knowledge and skills for achieving and maintain high standards of quality and compliance. By bringing together educationists, professionals and academicians to provide a platform for exchange of thoughts and ideas. The workshop will foster collaboration and innovation contributing to the overall enhancement of organizational practices. By focussing on the aspects, the workshop can effectively and empower participants, academicians to utilize Binary Accreditation in this professional environment. In 2022 NAAC published white paper re-imaging assessment and accreditation in higher education in India, that made the case for removing the prevalent grading system and replacing it with a binary assessment system. Assessment helps institutions to know its strength and weakness and opportunities through reformed review process and also to initiate modern and innovative methods of pedagogy. Binary system is to encourage all the institutions to join the NAAC Accreditation process and to create a culture of quality and excellence in higher education. The reforms by the UGC in the NAAC accreditation system are expected to bring a big change in the quality and excellence of higher education in India. The New Binary Accreditation system of NAAC will ultimately benefit students, academicians and faculty members.
